Rising from the ashes...

A communication for the community by the community.

March 2017 Issue 9

Thanks to all those who helped out at the mountain cattlemen's, raising funds for their community groups and making it such a successful Buchan event. The plaque in the photo was part of the bar and donated to the community. Let's hope the event will be held here again in the future.

Buchan Flower Show Gardening info for April

There is still a whole heap of things you can pop in the patch at this time of year. Tasty herbs that are ready to roll include coriander and you could give mint and lemon balm a go as well, but be careful to contain it, otherwise it can take over!

Try these tasty wonders this month: Chinese cabbage, most Asian Greens, spinach, rocket, broccoli, spring onions, asparagus, celery, endive, squash, onions, silverbeet, leeks and lettuce. Remember to plant some carrots during April!

Add some colour and movement to the patch, and pop in some of these little pretties- dianthus, cornflower, pansy, viola, Echinacea, stock, verbenas and lupins. Having these around your veggies will give some interest to the patch, and act as beneficial insect attractors!

Top up mulch on your veggie patches, herb gardens and ornamental beds, especially important for weed suppression at this time of year. A hot tip is to mulch after watering the patch, to a depth of about 7cm.

Keep mulch clear of plant stems... especially young seedlings.

Green manure crops, including oats, wheat, faba beans and field peas are good to go now... improve that dormant veggie patch, and get ready for next seasons heavy feeding plants!

Plants feel the need for a feed at this time of year. A seaweed tea, or any low environmental impact liquid fertiliser, is perfect for the seedlings you've just popped in. Apply to the soil early in the morning, and in the concentrations mentioned on the packet.

Weeding is an awesome job to do at this time of year. Cut down the competition between your tasty treats and these space invaders, and tidy up your patch. It may sound tedious, but it's incredibly rewarding!

Water smarter at this time of year.

Water first thing in the morning, and instead of quickie irrigation, a nice, deep drink a couple of times a week is far more beneficial! Always check soil moisture before watering at this time of year... don't waste your precious drinking water if Mother Nature has already done all the hard work for you!

East Gippsland caves; 100 years of newspaper articles: 1854 - 1954

Thanks, explanations, and the fine print.

Part one Buchan Phoenix Feb 2017 (1854 to 1880)

Part two...

1882

The caves of Limestone Creek were first reported on by Thomas Easton, as a marble resource.

One paragraph near the end of the article is telling:-

'I much regret to say that the workman I have spoken of appear to have committed a great deal of unnecessary mischief in the caves we searched, as in some of them barrow loads of stalactites were lying on the floor, having been uselessly and wantonly broken off.'

This is the one and only reference to the caves of Limestone creek found.

1884

This was a busier year for cave news

The first reports on NN-1, Nargun, and NN-2 appeared.

The article titled 'How I found Nargun Cave' by J.D.S. mentions that;

'Bulmer had seen the cave but it was so many years ago that he had forgotten the precise locality.'

From this it is clear that white men knew of the cave prior to this date.

He wrote in the article the fears of the Aborigines about the Nurgun and refused to take him there and the difficulty in locating the cave.

One article says the flowing stream water was pure and the second that the creek through the cave was dry but from the 'driftwood shows that sometimes it is four or five foot deep'.

There is no mention at all of bats.

As with the Limestone Creek caves there are no further references found on the Nowa Nowa caves.

There is also a good description of the Cathedral cave (EB-4 Wilsons), by E. M. Buchan.

The exploration was with kerosene lanterns.

Mega fauna bones were noted in the sediments 'entombed beneath the stalactites,' as well as bats in their three hours exploring. This is the only mention of bats in any article.

The bones were also mentioned in several later articles.

After this Buchan goes on to say:- 'At one place on the Buchan River the river has undermined and caused a cave to fall down, thus leaving exposed to the sunlight the hill wall which was most interesting. The stalactites here are seen to great advantage, and I have obtained beautiful specimens of petrified grasses, reeds, roots etc.'

This year also saw the first mention of Reserves for the caves.

An application to the Bairnsdale Lands Board by Gen. McKie, for 299a Buchan, east of J. P. Wilson's was 'recommended subject to excision for caves.'

1885

The caves are now becoming more well-known and visitors can now pay for a guide to tour the caves.

Cricketers from around the district were escorted through 'Wilson's caves'.

The name had changed since the previous year to what we call the cave today.

The Cricket Club Hotel (now Homeleigh; owned by Rimstone Cooperative) was open for business and visitors could obtain a cave guide at the hotel.

J. M. had a long poem about the caves printed.

1886

A tour through Wilsons cave is described.

Lighting was kerosene torches and candles but at one place 'Our guide here teased a quantity of stringy bark and saturating it with kerosene applied match.'

Apparently the effect was a good one.

It is also stated that 'The Spring Creek caves and the Murrindal caves are said to be equal to Wilson's caves'.

It is possible that the Spring Creek caves referred to is B-15, Childrens cave.

The Murrindal caves could refer to M-32, Dicksons.

1887

Mr Foley advertises a regular Bruthen to Buchan coach run and 'will make special arrangements with those desirous of visiting the far-famed Buchan caves.'

Landowners are becoming annoyed with visiting sportsmen shooting, disturbing stock and damaging fences, particularly on Sundays.

COMMUNITY HERITAGE GRANTS APPLICATIONS OPEN

Federal Member for Gippsland Darren Chester has encouraged not-for-profit community groups to apply to the Community Heritage Grants Program to help preserve significant collections.

Grants of up to $15,000 are available for community organisations such as public libraries, museums, historical societies, Indigenous and multicultural groups to preserve and protect nationally significant collections.

"These grants help local communities to preserve and display culturally important material such as artefacts, letters, diaries and photographs. The grants help to keep these items intact and available to the wider community," Mr Chester said.

"The program also offers collection management training workshops to assist staff and volunteers preserve significant items."

Minister for the Arts Mitch Fifield said the Community Heritage Grants Program helped small community groups manage natural, historical and Indigenous heritage collections and enabled collaboration with national cultural institutions such as the National Library of Australia.

"The program is an important way of protecting culturally significant items in our regions and connecting community groups with our national institutions to share their knowledge and expertise."

The Community Heritage Grants Program is administered by the National Library of Australia, with support provided by the Department of Communications and the Arts, the National Archives of Australia, the National Film and Sound Archive and the National Museum of Australia.

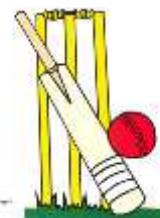

Applications close Monday, May 8, 2017.
